1. It's An Energy Booster

Drinking energized structured water is a great energy source for the body because it recharges your liquid battery. When the body gets sufficiently charged, it optimizes the cellular and metabolic functions as well.

2. Promotes a Healthy Immune System

Structured water supports your immune system in several ways, including promoting optimal bioavailability of nutrients and the hydration of cells. It also makes it easier for your cells to absorb oxygen, resulting in the proper functioning of your systems. Additionally, it aids in preventing toxins in the body that could negatively impact your immune system.

3. Allows Optimal Hydration

Hydration has more to do with how much water your cells absorb than how much water you drink. Therefore, unlike structured water, regular tap or filtered water does not provide optimal hydration.

4. Helps Maintain Your Health

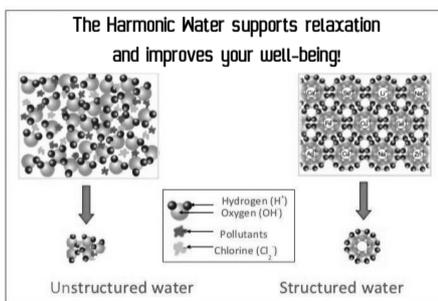

Structured water does not have any contaminants or pollutants, so it's safe for drinking. Its other health benefits include promoting digestion, eliminating constipation, helping with weight loss and maintenance, and aiding better sleep. Other associated benefits include keeping your skin hydrated, reducing hair fall, stabilizing blood sugar levels, and improving memory and concentration.

5. Helps Blood Flow Structured water causes flow through hydrophilic tubes.

The process explains how blood circulation occurs in the capillaries. The heart's pumping action alone is not strong enough to cause the flow of red blood cells through the tiny capillaries. If it did, your body's blood pressure would be too high. So instead, the capillaries are hydrophilic tubes that require energized structured water for blood flow. The phenomenon explains why infrared saunas and mats aid blood circulation. It is not due to the heat but the infrared light creating hexagonal water.

6. Leads to Tastier

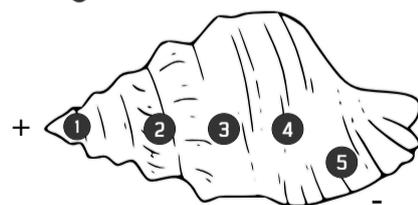

Water Structured water tastes better than pure, tap, or filtered water because its surface tension is lower than tap or filtered water. Additionally, it is smooth, soft, and clean, so it's absorbed quickly by the body.
